

Six man caper, side room of the tower,
Crown Jewels of our Merry Monarch's power.
'Tis a tale of old London, filled with fright.
Hold quick your corset, 'twill be a bumpy night.

GODOT

What a dreadful catalogue of cut-throats!
Let us launch this plan and see if it floats.
With manners and wit, reformed of all good,
Poor Devils, not bad, just misunderstood?
Oh, what a laugh! Like a tittering wench,
Giggling like mademoiselles: "How French."
HA HA HA HA! Well, I can't stand the stench!
Another!.....So laugh away the hour:
'SEVEN DOGS AWAIT DEATH AT THE TOWER!'
